(01) Korobov,A (2670) - Gasanov,E (2482) [E12]

Chigorin Mem Classic Open St Petersburg RUS (8), 04.11.2010

[IM Polivanov, A]

1.d4 Nf6 2.c4 e6 3.Nf3 b6 4.a3 Bb7 5.Nc3 d5 6.cxd5 Nxd5 [6...exd5 7.g3 Be7 8.Qa4+ c6 9.Bg2 0-0 10.0-0 Nbd7 is also often practiced direction.] 7.Qc2 White is preparing e2-e4. 7...Nxc3 8.bxc3 Be7 9.e4 0-0 10.Bd3 c5 11.0-0 cxd4 12.cxd4 Qc8

Black bet on exchange of white-squared bishops. Another popular line - 12...Nc6 13.Bb2 Rc8 14.Qe2 Bf6 15.Rad1 Na5 (15...Nxd4? 16.Bxd4 Bxd4 17.Bb5! e5 18.Nxe5±) 16.Rfe1] 13.Qe2 Ba6 14.Rd1 Bxd3 15.Rxd3 Nd7 16.Bb2 [White, in turn, can go oneself on exchange of dark-squared bishops, as in one recent game: 16.e5 Qc4 17.Bg5 Bd8 18.h4 h6 19.Bf4 Nc5?! 20.dxc5 Qxf4 21.Rd4 Qf5 22.c6, Lenic-Podolchenko, EICC 2010, and c6 pawn provides an advantage.] 16...Qa6 17.Rad1 Rac8 [Earlier encountered 17...Rfe8 18.h4 Qb5 19.g3 Rac8 20.Kg2 Qa4 21.R1d2 △ Qe3-f4, Ribli-Almasi, Altensteig 1994. Korobov operates a similar scheme - h4, transfer queen to f4, and somewhere d4-d5.] 18.h4 Rfe8 19.R1d2 h6 20.Qe3 Qb7 21.d5 It's worth to hurry with d5, because 21.Qf4 Nf6! 22.d5 Rc4] 21...exd5 22.Rxd5 Nc5 23.Qf4 Bf8 24.Qf5!? [Very interesting idea - saving the e4-pawn was only possible by 24.e5, but White prefers to give a pawn away, but to keep a bishop b2 open.] 24...Rxe4 25.Ne5

And now the intention of White is becoming a distinct - the sacrifice on d7 and then taking on f7 with attack. What Black has to do? 25...Rc7? This move appears a defence only at first glance. Nobody wants to choose 25...f6 26.Ng4, with hanging strikes on f6, h6; but 25...Re1+! 26.Kh2 Re8 was just right.] 26.f3!! [In this replica all the essence is caught - an immediate 26.Rd7 Rxd7 27.Rxd7 is bad because 27...Re1+ 28.Kh2 Qe4!; therefore, it's necessary to take the square e4.] 26...Re2 [White is nice winning in the next line - 26...Rxf4 27.g3! (weaker 27.Rd7 Rxd7 28.Rxd7 Nxd7 29.Qxf7+ Kh7 30.Nxd7? Bc5+ 31.Kf1 Qa6+ with mate) 27...Ra4 28.Rd7! (28.Rd8 Ne6) 28...f6 29.Rd8+-] 27.Rd7! As planned from the outset. Now one has to part with the queen. 27...Rxd7 [27...Nxd7 28.Qxf7+ Kh8 29.Nxd7 Qc8 30.Rxe2 Rxd7 31.Bxg7+!] 28.Rxd7 Qxd7 29.Nxd7 Nxd7 30.Bxg7! If bishop should to be given, let's make it more expensive. 30...Kxg7

31.Qg4+ Kf6 32.Qxd7 Bxa3 33.Qxa7 Bc5+
34.Kh2

With this ratio of the material there is always some hope for a fortress, but Korobov pursues his plan very clearly - to activate the queen, king, and then pawn's assault. 34...Kg7 35.Qa1+ Kg8 36.Kh3 Bf8 37.Qb1 Re6 38.Qf5 Bg7 39.f4 Re3+ 40.Kg4 Re6 41.Kh5 Rc6 A pin threatens... 42.Qd7 Rc5+ 43.f5 Everything is ready for a decisive thrust of pawn "g". 43...b5 44.g4 b4 45.g5 hxg5 46.hxg5 Re5 47.g6 1-0

(02) Yemelin,V (2572) - Navara,D (2708) [B14]

TCh-CZE 2010-11 Frydek Mistek CZE (5.1), 05.11.2010
[IM Polivanov, A]

1.e4 c6 2.d4 d5 3.exd5 cxd5 4.c4 Nf6 5.Nc3 e6 6.Nf3 Bb4 [For information about 6...Nc6 7.Bg5 Be7 worth to look Nakamura-Gelfand, CZM 09/2010.] 7.cxd5 [White does not want to lose a tempo after 7.Bd3 dxc4 8.Bxc4, so he just prefers to decline all questions with a pawn c4.] 7...Nxd5 [Perhaps 7...exd5 is even more reliable and easier - opens c8-bishop and the line "e" for the rook.] 8.Bd2 Nc6 9.Bd3 0-0 10.0-0 Be7 [10...Nf6 11.Bg5 Be7 12.Re1 leads with a transposition of moves to the position in the game.] 11.Re1

11...Nf6 [11...Ndb4 should be parried by 12.Bf4! Nxd3 13.Qxd3 b6 14.a3 Bb7 15.Rad1± with inevitable d4-d5; maybe, 11...Bf6!? is worth playing.] 12.Bg5 Nb4 Trying to maintain a control over square d5. 13.Bb1 Bd7 In general, this line is estimated to favor of White - here are a couple of recent examples: 13...b6 14.Bxf6 Bxf6 15.Be4 Nd5 16.Bxd5 exd5 17.Ne5±, Arutinian-Dzagnidze, Dubai 2010; 13...Nbd5 14.Qd3 g6 15.Ne5 Bd7 16.Bh6 Re8 17.Qf3 Bc6 18.Ne4 Nb6 19.h4↑, Melia-Charkhalashvili, Georgia 2009] 14.Ne5 Rc8N [After 14...Bc6 the game Jovanovic-Sanduleac, Plovdiv 2008 was immediately drawn, but it apparently had his own reasons - as well as White can conduct the same plan as here.] 15.Re3 The planned transition of the rook. White has already threatened the sacrifice on h7 after taking on f6, so it's needed to take action. 15...g6 [15...h6 is no good: 16.Rh3 (16.Bxh6 gxh6 17.Rg3+ Kh8 18.Qd2 Ng8) 16...hxg5 17.Bh7+! Kh8 18.Ne4+-] 16.Bh6 Re8 17.Rg3 Bc6??

Black show a staggering complacency - after this move the game can not be saved. 17...Bd6 also did not help 18.Bxg6! fxc6 19.Qb1 Re7 20.Rxg6+ hxc6 21.Qxg6+ Kh8 22.Qxf6+ Kg8 (22...Kh7 23.Qh4!) 23.Qg5+ Kh7 (23...Kh8 24.Ng6+ Kh7 25.Ne4 with the crushing) 24.Ng4! Rf7 25.Qh5, and one can give up; 17...Bf8! allowed to continue the fight.] 18.a3! Very correct - it won't hurt to drive off a knight before sacrifice on g6. 18...Nbd5 19.Bxg6 [Edition 19.Nxg6 hxc6 20.Bxg6 is a less accurate - 20...Bd6!] 19...hxc6 20.Nxg6 Kh7 [20...fxg6 21.Qd3] 21.Qd3 Here it was possible to surrender, but Black did not deprive White of pleasure to announce a forced mate. 21...Nxc3 [21...Kxh6 22.Ne5 with threats Nxf7 and Rg6.] 22.Nf8+ Kh8 23.Bg7+ Kg8 24.Bxf6+ Kxf8 25.Rg8+ Black resigned. It remains unknown how Navara might lose in this way - because the whole idea with the sacrifice is well-known since game Keene-Miles, Hastings 1975, which went round the entire world press. 1-0

(03) Karjakin, Sergey (2760) - Gelfand, B (2741) [C42]

Tal Memorial Moscow RUS (1), 05.11.2010

[IM Polivanov, A]

1.e4 e5 2.Nf3 Nf6 3.Nxe5 d6 4.Nf3 Nxe4 5.Nc3 In fact, the only line where White has a possibility to attack. Or one should play Cochrane Gambit 4.Nxf7?! 5...Nxc3 6.dxc3 Be7 7.Be3 [For 7.Bf4 look Sjugirov-Motylev, CZM 07/2009.] 7...0-0 8.Qd2 Nd7 9.0-0-0 Ne5 [Need to somehow continue the development, but 9...Nc5 is less accurate because of 10.Bc4! Therefore, 9... Ne5.] 10.h4 c6!?

An interesting idea which was extended in this year. The queen can go to a5, and pawn - to d5. 11.Kb1 Bg4 [Gelfand follows a familiar way. But, despite the fact that a2 is protected, one can still make an attack by the queen: 11...Qa5 12.Be2 Be6 13.b3 Nxf3 14.Bxf3 Bf6 15.Bd4 Bxd4 16.Qxd4 Qc5=, Kokarev-Maslak, TCh-RUS 2010, and Black equalized.] 12.Be2 Nxf3 13.gxf3 Bh5 14.f4 Bxe2 15.Qxe2 Bf6N [This is insignificant rearrangement of moves in comparison with 15...Re8 16.f5 Bf6 17.Qg4 d5 18.h5 Re4 19.Qg3 Qe7 20.h6 g6 21.fxg6 fxc6 22.a3 Qe5, Leko-Gelfand, Astrakhan 2010, and all has ended with a fast drawn game.] 16.Rhg1! Good idea - queen e2 is yet to hold that it does not come under attack as in the previous annotation. So let the rook create a pressure. 16...Re8 17.f5 Kh8?! [Probably, 17...d5 18.h5 h6 19.Rg4 Kh7! was nevertheless more essentially and the rook can move on g8 at need with solid defense.] 18.h5 h6 19.Qd2 Now Black is losing a pawn. 19...Kh7 20.Qxd6 Qxd6 21.Rxd6 Is White's superiority there enough to win? With the exact defence - unlikely. 21...Rad8 22.Rxd8 [Leaving the first rank is dangerous: 22.Rgd1 Rxd6 23.Rxd6 Bg5!] 22...Rxd8 23.Bxa7 Rd5 24.Be3 Rxf5 25.Rh1

25...Bg5! Perfectly played. Black should form a passer by g6, but so far it did not work due to strike on h6. So, it's necessary to cut off the bishop e3. 26.f4 [26.Bxg5? hxg5 27.Rh2 g4] 26...Bf6 [26...Bxf4? 27.Rf1+-] 27.Kc1 The task of the White is complicated because moving pawns forward is not so simple: 27.a4 Ra5! 27...Rb5 [To keep pawn b7 protected, instead of 27...g6 28.hxg6+ fxg6 29.Rd1 h5] 28.Rh3 g6 29.hxg6+ fxg6 30.a4 Ra5 31.b3 Rh5 [Probably Black did not like 31...Bxc3 32.Bb6 Ra6 33.Bd8, but after 33...Bb4 34.Rd3 b5! all proceeds normally (there is no a5 with bishop b4).] 32.Rxh5 gxh5 33.Kd2 h4 Pawn "h" is very dangerous, but White has enough time to keep pace tempo in tempo. 34.c4 h3 35.Bg1 Kg6 36.Ke3 Kf5 37.Kf3 Bc3! Preventing to white pawns' advancement. 38.Be3 Threatening Kg3, but Black is on the alert. 38...Be1 39.Bc5 There is no plan, except as b4-b5. 39...h2 40.Kg2 Kxf4 41.b4 h1Q+! Worsening the position of the white king. 42.Kxh1 Kf3 43.b5 cxb5 44.cxb5

44...Ke4? [Successfully holding a difficult defence, Gelfand stumbles over a step to the desired result. One had just to block the pawn a4 - 44...Ba5!, and then the king just going to destroy the white queenside. By shifting of components the sum varies considerably...] 45.Bb6! That's it! Karjakin forms passed pawn "a", which can be stopped only from the square b8 - by the way, not for long. 45...Kd5 46.a5 Bg3 47.Kg2 Bb8 48.a6 bxa6 A good chance was 48...Kc4!?, but after a clear 49.Bc7! (49.a7? missing the victory: 49...Bxa7 50.Bxa7 Kxb5 51.Kf3 Kc4 52.Ke2 b5!, and a pawn just goes to b3) 49...bxa6 50.b6! - White must win.] 49.bxa6 Kc4 50.Kf3 That's the whole point - while the Black will be taken to c2, white king breaks to a6 pawn and it will become irresistible. 50...Kc3 51.Ke4 h5 Black try to show his last trump. 52.Bd4+ [52.Bf2 Kxc2 53.Kd5 Kd3 54.Kc6 Ke2 55.Kb7! was good too.] 52...Kxc2 [If 52...Kc4, White wins by zugzwang: 53.c3! h4 (53...Kb3 54.Kd3!) 54.Kf3 h3 55.Kf2 h2 56.Kg2 Kb5 (56...Kd3 57.Be5) 57.a7] 53.Bf6! [Accuracy until the end! Careless 53.Bf2? would have given to Black the most important tempo, which would be enough for a draw: 53...Kd2 54.Kd5 Ke2 55.Bh4 Kf1 56.Kc6 Ba7 57.Bd8 Kg1! (to not fall under the check from a8) 58.Bb6+ Bxb6 59.Kxb6 h4, and there is no win.] 53...Kd2 54.Kd5 Ke2 55.Kc6 Ba7 56.Bd8 Kf1

57.Bb6 1-0

(04) Aronian,L (2801) - Gelfand,B (2741) [D43]

Tal Memorial Moscow RUS (3), 07.11.2010

[IM Polivanov, A]

1.d4 d5 2.c4 c6 3.Nf3 Nf6 4.Nc3 e6
5.Qd3!? [A curious continuation, which main objective - to avoid the worn out variants after 5.Bg5 h6 6.Bh4 dxc4 7.e4 g5
8.Bg3 b5] 5...Nbd7 6.g3 Bd6 7.Bg2 0-0
8.0-0 dxc4 Black choose a standard method of unloading in the center. 9.Qxc4 e5
10.Rd1 Qe7 11.Bg5 [In the case of the unconcerned 11.a4?! White is risking to obtain a worse position: 11...e4 12.Ng5 Nb6
13.Qb3 Bf5, Tsamriuk-Burmakin, Kras-
nodar 1997] 11...h6 [11...e4 is ineffective
now in view of 12.Nd2 Nb6 13.Qb3 Be6
14.Qc2 e3 15.Bxe3 Ng4 16.Nf1!±]
12.Nh4!N

. Interesting novelty (but most likely "disposable"), called to put the problems that are not so easy to solve over the board.
[12.Bxf6 Nxf6 13.dxe5 Bxe5 14.Nxe5 Qxe5 - dry and lifeless.] 12...Nb6 [Of course, Black can not accept 12...hxg5 13.Nf5] 13.Bxf6 Qxf6?! [Gelfand could not accurately assess the consequences of 13...Nxc4 14.Bxe7 Bxe7 15.d5 and refused it. And in vain: 15...Nxb2 16.Rdb1
Bb4! (the first exact move) 17.Nd1 Nxd1

18.Rxb4 Nc3 19.dxc6 bxc6 20.Bxc6 a5! -
the second fine intermediate, after which Black is OK.] 14.Qb3 Bc7? [Another inaccuracy. It is clear that 14...exd4? 15.Ne4 Qe7 16.Ng6 is bad...;... but 14...Be6!
promises a good counterplay for Black:
15.d5 cxd5 16.Bxd5 Nxd5 17.Nxd5 Qg5
18.Qxb7 Rab8 19.Qxa7 Rxb2] 15.d5 cxd5
16.Bxd5! Bishop d5 will cut the entire position on the side, and one can not take it.
16...Kh8 [16...Nxd5 17.Nxd5 Qd8
18.Ng6+-] 17.Rac1 Qe7 18.Qc2 Before disturbing a knight b6 by 18.a4, Aronian thinks about prevention - previously there was the opportunity 18...g5!?, now it will not.] 18...Rb8 19.a4 Bh3

20.Bg2! [Black knight would sneak through 20.a5 Nd7, but it don't allow to make - piece goes from c3 to d5.]
20...Be6 21.a5 Na8 [One have to take such an awkward position (largely due to the move 14...Bc7), as 21...Nd7 22.Nd5 Bxd5 23.Nf5! Qg5 24.Rxd5+- is very poor.] 22.Nd5 Bxd5 23.Rxd5 White pieces control the whole board, so that Black is not easy even to find a decent move.
23...Qe6 24.b4 Bd8 Attempting to enter knight a8 in the game, because it is impossible to watch on it without tears.
25.Nf5 g6 26.Nd6 [26.Nxh6? Bg5]
26...Nc7 27.Rdd1 b6 28.Nb7 Na6?! [So
the white pieces freely enter the camp contender. 28...Nb5 was more stubborn, but even then after 29.e3! the advantage is huge.] 29.Rd6 Qg4 30.Qb2! [Skillfully played. 30.Qd2 at once is useless for a reason 30...Bg5] 30...Qxb4 [30...f6, and only now 31.Qd2] 31.Qxe5+ Kh7 32.Rd7 Threatening to take on d8 and a7, Nd6... Protection is no longer exists. 32...Bg5

[32...bxa5 33.Nxd8 Rbxd8 34.Rxd8 Rxd8 35.Qf6+-] 33.Rcd1 [It was possible to win beautifully: 33.Nd6! Rbd8 (33...Bxc1 34.Nxf7) 34.Rc8!!, but for such a victory the same one point is given.] 33...Nc5 34.Nxc5 Qxc5 35.Qxc5 bxc5 Trying to find salvation in the endgame, but there is not - with the support of an bishop g2, a5 pawn is doomed to success. 36.Rxa7 c4 37.a6 c3 38.Rc7 Rbc8 39.Rxc8 Rxc8 40.e3! [It is important to pull the plug bishop g5 this way - 40.f4?! is risking to incur some check through diagonal a7-g1.] 40...Be7 41.Rc1 [41.Rc1 c2 42.a7 Ba3 43.Rxc2] 1-0

(05) Dvoirys,S (2581) - Timofeev,Arty (2681) [B76]

Russia Cup Final KO Belgorod RUS (2.1), 09.11.2010

[IM Polivanov, A]

1.e4 c5 2.Nf3 d6 3.d4 cxd4 4.Nxd4 Nf6 5.Nc3 g6 6.Be3 Bg7 7.f3 0-0 8.Bc4 Nc6 9.Bb3 [Preferring this move to popular 9.Qd2, White is going to determine the queen a little later (maybe put it on e2).] 9...Nxd4 10.Bxd4 Be6 But Black is also not averse to gain a tempo somewhere - in fact, bishop f1 already moved twice. 11.Nd5 [If to do this move, it's better to do it now - otherwise 11.Qd2 Qa5 and 12.Nd5?! is wrong - 12...Qxd2+ 13.Kxd2 Nxe4+] 11...Bxd5 12.exd5 a5 Worsening prospects for the bishop will not hurt Black - at the same time it's an outpost for the knight on c5. 13.a4 Nd7 14.Bxg7 Kxg7 15.Qd4+ Kg8 16.c3 Events unfolded somewhat differently in the 4th game of mini-match between the same players: 16.0-0 Qb6! 17.Qxb6 Nxb6 18.Rfe1 Rfe8 19.Re4 Rac8 (19...Nd7 20.Bc4 Nc5 21.Re3 e5!/? is also interesting, Nisipeanu-Polgar, World Cup 2009) 20.c3 Rc5 21.Rd1 Kf8, and Timofeev achieved a desired draw.] 16...Nc5 17.Bc4 Rc8 18.0-0 Qc7 Ne6 threatens. 19.Qe3 Qb6 20.Qf2 [Now 20.Bb5 is impossible: 20...Nxa4!] 20...Nd7 21.Bb5 Qxf2+ 22.Rxf2

The resulting endgame seems quite normal for the Black - their position is constrained, but there is a line "c" and weakness on d5. 22...Nb6 23.Rd1 Rc5 24.Rfd2 Rfc8 25.Kf2 Kf8 26.Rd4 Nc4 Having exhausted the supply of useful moves, Black is offering a transition in the rook ending. With a little hesitation, White agrees. 27.Rb1 Nb6 28.Rbd1 Nc4 29.Bxc4 Rxc4 30.Ke3 R4c5 31.Kd3 b5 Fearing whether c4 or rook's transfer on the line "b", Black hampers both ideas. 32.Ra1 h5 33.axb5 Rxb5 34.Kc2 Rcb8 35.Ra2 f5

36.Rda4! White is gonna attempt to play to win - after the exchange of pawns passed pawn b2 will be formed. But black has something to respond. 36...Rxd5 37.Rxa5 Rxa5 38.Rxa5 Kf7 [38...e5?! 39.Ra7] 39.b4 e5 40.Kb3 Re8 41.c4 Ke6! [Absolutely right - after a premature 41...e4?! 42.fxe4 fxe4 43.Kc3 e3 44.Ra1 pawn "e" can be lost.] 42.b5 e4 43.fxe4 fxe4 44.Kc3 d5 45.b6 [45.c5 looks tempting, but such feeling that Black will still be able to stop these pawns: 45...Ke5 46.b6 d4+ 47.Kc4 d3 48.c6+ (48.Ra2 Rb8) 48...Kd6 49.c7 Kc6] 45...dxc4 46.Kxc4 e3 47.Kd3 Kd7 48.Ra2 Kc6 49.Rb2 Kb7 This ending is a bit like a game Ponomarev-Spasov, CZM 10/2010, but Black was even harder there - because here he has an own passer. 50.Ke2 Re5 51.Rb4 Rg5 52.g3 Re5 53.Rb3

53...Re6? [It's difficult to explain such error. Should play 53...g5! with all the chances for salvation: 54.h3 (54.Rxe3 Rb5; 54.Rb1 h4! 55.g4 h3) 54...Kc8 55.Rxe3 Rb5 56.Re6 Rb2+, and it's a draw.] 54.h4! Now Black is in zugzwang. It is important that square g5 is fixed for the white king. 54...g5 Black has to do this move, as giving a pawn e3 "with all the amenities" (like in last variation) is not succeeded anymore: 54...Re5 55.Rxe3 Rb5 56.Re7+ Kb8 57.b7 Rb2+ 58.Kf3 Rb3+ 59.Kf4 Rb4+ 60.Re4! Rb6 61.Kg5, and g6 certainly be lost.] 55.hxg5 Re5 56.Rxe3 Rxc5 57.Rb3 Rf5 [On 57...Rg4 there is only one move to win - 58.Kf3! (otherwise the exchange h4).] 58.Rb4 Rf6 White's goal is quite simple - to seize the right moment and take on h5, sweep g3 pawn in the queen. 59.Ke3 Rf1 60.Rb5 Rf8 61.Ke4 [61.Rxh5 Kxb6 62.Rd5 was possible too - three verticals between enemy's king and knight passer are enough to win. But Dvoirys wants to improve the position of king first.] 61...Rh8 62.Kf3 Heading to h4 through g2. 62...Rh6 63.Kf4! On this occasion, White alters the route. 63...h4 64.Kg5 Winning the second pawn - the fight is over. 64...Rh8 65.gxh4 Rg8+ 66.Kf6 Rd8 67.h5 Rd6+ 68.Kg5 1-0

The idea is that after the exchange of queens four pawns must cope with the bishop, but apparently, White decided that if swapping then all the pieces at once. 42...Kg7 43.Qe7 Kh8 44.Qh4+ [Kramnik decided that after 44.Qe5+ Qxe5 45.fxe5 Bd5 46.g4 Rf8 is not so easy to move own pawns ahead.] 44...Qh5 45.Qf6+ Rg7 46.f5 Kg8 [46...Qd1+ 47.Kh2 Qd5 would have brought more troubles and it is possible that the white king must go forward then: 48.g4 Qd2 49.Kg3 Qd3+ 50.Kh4 - and that gives mutual chances.] 47.Kh2 White could take the black queen in the "box": 47.f3! Qg5 (there is nothing else - 47...Qxf3 48.Qxg7+) 48.Qxg5 Rxg5

49.g4, with an easily won endgame.]
47...Qe2 48.Qd4 Qc4?! [Changing all the pieces - it is something that White should seek for. And Black just does all the work for him... Yes, is not so easy to find the move, but one could still pull time with something like 48...Qb5 49.Ra8+ Be8]
49.Qxc4 Bxc4 50.Rxg7+ Kxg7

With three pawns bishop still would be able to cope, but with four - it's hopeless. They are simply the rod forward like a tank. 51.g4 Kf6 52.Kg3 Ke5 53.h4 That passer "h" awaits for the main role. 53...Bd5 54.h5 Bb3 55.h6 Bg8 56.Kh4 Kf6 57.f3 [Required waiting move: 57.Kh5 Bf7+] 57...Bh7 58.Kh5 Bg8 59.g5+ [Without pawn f3, 59.g5+ Kxf5 60.g6 Kf6 61.h7 would lead only to a draw. But...] 1-0
